
Translating and the Computer 11
Preparing for the Next Decade
The Conference Forum, Sedgwick Centre, London, 16th – 17th November 1989

Programme

Session 1: The translation production process
Chaired by Barbara Wilson

Managing translation projects using Project Manager Workbench
Brian Forsdick

The Translator's Workbench Project
Patricia Thomas

Problems in software translation and how to avoid them
Siegrun O'Sullivan

Session 2: Terminology systems
Chaired by Pamela Mayorcas

Computer tools to improve the work of translators
Nigel Cassar

IFP terminological databases and the compiling of specialised dictionaries
G. Brace

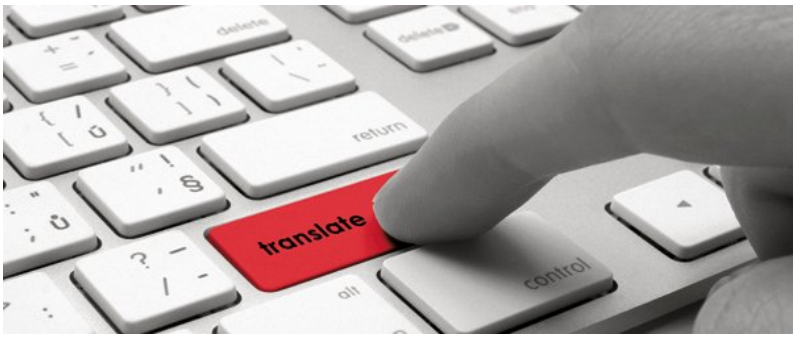
The IMO terminology data bank
Nicole Walls

Copyright, computers, dictionaries and translations
Jeremy Phillips

Session 3: Technology in the service of the translator
Chaired by Ulla Magnusson Murray

Hardware and software for desktop publishing
Howard Petrie

aslib
MANAGING INFORMATION



CD-ROM: what can it offer the translator?
Joan M. Day

The use of computer technology to store and redistribute voice as an aid to translation services
Fred McKenzie

Session 4: Translation systems
Chaired by Julie Slade

Translation and republication of technical documents
Ron Fournier and Larry Rogers

METAL - machine translation in practice
Patrick Little

Session 5: Voice systems
Chaired by John McNaught

Speech recognition, artificial intelligence and translation: how rosy a future?
Henry Thompson

aslib
MANAGING INFORMATION